FIGHT ON HAUGEN FARM RELIEF BILL

OHIO WITHDRAWS SUPPORT FROM THE PRICE FIXING LAW

The Farm Bureau Federation favors passage of the Tinner House Bill and the Capper Senate Bill which are almost identical, but apparently is only lukewarm on it—it has the "greatest possibility for good and the smallest chance for evil."

Ohio Farm Bureau organization renewed its fight on the Haugen farm relief bill Monday, as the senate committee prepared to hold hearings on it. Support at first accorded the measure in Ohio was withdrawn when the law was amended last week it "virtually a price-fixing law," officers of the federation said.

The bill in its present form carries an appropriation of $375,000,000 and creates a complicated and elaborate federal machinery to prevent price fluctuation in farm produce.

A board created by the law would be empowered to buy any crop of which it decided there was a surplus, thus keeping the price high on this particular product in a season of large production. The board then would sell this crop in other countries, at a loss if necessary, and assess this loss pro rata on the producer.

The assessment feature would become operative in two years.

For example, in 1925, when there was a bumper corn crop, the board, operating under this law, would have bought corn in quantities large enough to hold the price up in this country.

It would have exported this corn and assessed any loss in this marketing back against the farmers who produced the corn. Details of the assessing of such losses have not been worked out in the bill and would be in the hands of the board.

It amounts virtually to a subsidy for farmers, and creates a complex costly machinery which could not possibly operate to the advantage of the American public. L. B. Palmer, president of the federation, declared Monday. It would not benefit either the farmer or the general public and is a type of legislation the farmer is anxious to avoid, in that its aim is to enrich him at the expense of business in general. Such a law, even if it worked, would react unfavorably upon the farmer in a short time, Mr. Palmer said.

He wired Senators Fess and Willis Monday of the position of the federation following receipt of wires from most of the directors urging opposition to the Haugen bill.

In its original form the bill merely set up a division of cooperative marketing in the U. S. department of agriculture, and appropriated $250,000 for research work. In that form it was approved by farm bureaus throughout the country, Mr. Palmer said. Sentiment now is divided among the organizations, with most states apparently opposing the scheme, Mr. Palmer said.

The federation favors passage of the Tinner house bill and the Capper senate bill, which are almost identical but apparently is only lukewarm on it. It has the "greatest possibility for good and the smallest chance for evil" effects of any of the farm bills now before congress, is the way federation officers sum it up.

Both bills propose to appropriate $100,000,000 which is to be loaned to cooperative marketing organizations on the same basis as the federal farm loans. It also creates an advisory board of marketing. The Aswell bill, which establishes a similar board but compels it to act as a marketing organization, is opposed by the farm bureau.

COUNTY HEALTH BOARD.

The advisory council, a body composed of the mayors of villages outside of the county seat and presidents of township boards of trustees met Monday to elect a successor to George Kirkpatrick, whose term on the county board of health had expired. NEXT MEETING OF W. C. T. U. AT HOSPITAL

Motion Pictures Discussed and Splendid Program Rendered on May Third.

A most enjoyable evening was spent last Friday by the Circleville W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Abbie Gussman on East Franklin street.

The meeting opened in charge of President Mrs. Lulu Marion, who read the scripture lesson and led in the Lord's prayer. The song, "America, the Beautiful," then was sung and the roll call was followed by responses clipped from the Union Signal.

A short business session then took place, during which it was decided to have the next meeting the last Friday in May, an all day meeting at the Home and Hospital. Miss Lydia Leist was appointed chairman on arrangements.

It was decided to send the Afghan recently finished by Mrs. Mary Rife for the Union to the Veterans' camp at Chillicothe. A committee composed of Mrs. Rife, Miss Anna Kirkwood and Miss Charlotte Phelps was appointed to take it there.

The program of the evening was then taken up under the leadership of Mrs. Bessie Long. Her subject was "Motion Pictures."

In a short talk Mrs. Long brought out the appeal of the cinema in a threefold manner: First—physical, its reaction upon the physical body; second—mental, its effect upon the mind and emotions; third, spiritual—does it tend to higher ideals or does it lead to lower ones? She concluded that the motion pictures are here to stay and we, as a Union, must do our part to secure clean, safe, pictures. Do not censure without seeing, and stand by our boys and girls, to give them wholesome amusement without taint.

A leaflet, "Play of Work," by Maud Aldrich, director of the motion pictures of the W. C. T. U., was read by Miss Mabel Heise.

A pretty piano duet was then given by the Misses Verda and Katherine Eyman. Reading, "Why Censorship?" by Miss Katherine Hill; vocal solo, "Sin Will Not Have Dominion Over Me," by Miss Ada Burgett.

Miss Charlotte Phelps then gave a talk on "Movies," good or bad, some experiences of her own from a professional standpoint, and the broad, open attitude the W. C. T. U. should take. Her talk was much enjoyed by all.

The last number on the program was a piano solo by Dorothy Glick.

The Union had as guests about twelve young women who added much to the evening's enjoyment by their presence and cooperation.

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, chocolate and homemade cake were then served after the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Quail Retrieved Brood

The story is told by Arthur Drummond, a farmer of Elmdale, Kan., of an old hen that was determined to "set" but would not use the nests in the henhouse. Then one day the mother quail came along and took all the little quails away.—Indianapolis News.

"Bohemium" Discovered

Everything on earth—fire, water, dirt, plants and animals—everything in the whole visible universe, including the sun, planets and stars, is made up of less than 100 different substances called "elements." Most of these have been found, numbered and put in order according to the structure of their atoms. A few gaps remain.

Drs. J. Heyrovsky and Doleyssek of Prague, Czechoslovakia, have announced the discovery of No. 75, one of the missing elements, says Popular Science Monthly. They have named it "bohemia," in honor of Bohemia. Not long ago three German scientists claimed to have discovered 75, too, and also 43. If these two are verified, then only three missing chemical elements will remain to be discovered—Nos. 61, 85 and 87.

SPEEDERS HALTED BY ROAD MAGNETS

Automatic Device Slows Down Autos to Safe Gait at Grade Crossings.

A novel and fascinating idea came to Charles Adler of Baltimore, Md., one evening not long ago, as he sat by his laboratory window and watched the twinkling lights of commuters' trains flashing by in the railroad yards below. He contrasted their orderly operation with the helter-skelter rush of home-going automobiles on the road that crossed the railroad tracks at the end of the yard.

"Why not," he thought, "apply a little signal engineering to the problem of preventing auto accidents at grade crossings? Surely there must be some way to keep the reckless driver from committing suicide—force him to drive carefully whether he wants to or not."

Adler set to work to solve the problem. As a result, he has invented a system that automatically slows down the fast-driven car as it approaches the railroad crossing. No matter how hard the driver steps on the throttle, the car will not travel at a speed greater than fifteen miles an hour until it has passed the crossing.

The device, described in the June Popular Science Monthly, consists essentially of a powerful magnet concealed in a concrete box beneath the surface of the roadway at the proper distance from the railroad crossing. As the approaching car passes over a magnet, the latter operates a system of relays and a governor so designed that it will allow current to flow through the automobile ignition system at speeds below fifteen miles an hour, but cuts it off when the car is traveling faster than that rate.

This action continues until another road magnet at the danger point is reached, when the ignition circuit is restored to its normal path. The road magnets are made up of flat strips of magnetized steel, placed side by side in the concrete beneath the road surface.

This remarkable invention may help to solve other important traffic problems besides that of the railroad grade crossing. Controlling magnets could be placed at any point where slow and careful operation of automobiles is necessary for the public safety.

Had Him Puzzled

The teacher was showing the children how to form the figures from 1 to 12. After writing them on the blackboard several times she told the children to write them in their exercise books from memory.

When, later, she looked at the books she found that one little boy had written the numbers correctly up to ten, but instead of the figure 11, he had written only 1.

"Why, what is the meaning of this, Jackie Jones?" she asked, pointing out the solitary figure.

"Please, teacher," he said, "I didn't know on which side of the 1 to put the other 1."—Pearson's.

Go-Getting Is Not All

Possibilities Open for Farm Storage of Grain

The farmer has the choice of three places for storing his grain in order to hold it for a favorable market, it is explained by L. F. Rickey, grain marketing specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. These three places are: (1) in cribs or granaries on his own farm, (2) elevators or cribs at his shipping point, or (3) at the terminal elevators. In order to hold his grain, it is often necessary for the farmer to borrow money upon it as collateral.

When it is in public elevators at the terminal markets he can readily borrow on the warehouse certificates, but the cost of such storage is rather high. Storage in the local elevator has advantages, but these houses are not large enough to actually store very much grain and many elevators refuse this class of business or limit the time of storage to a comparatively short period.

Farm cattle and granaries offer the cheapest storage for grain crops and this method has several other apparent advantages. However, no one would care to loan money on grain so located. Iowa has solved this part of the problem by its unbonded agricultural warehouse law. Under its provisions cribs or granaries are officially sealed and storage certificates issued which are acceptable to local bankers as collateral for loans. The grain thereby finances its holding for a favorable market.

HARBOR SAILING FULL OF THRILLS

Storms and Frigid Temperature, All Part of the Day's Work.

New York.—During a recent cold spell, when the harbor was swept by angry winds and navigation was at a standstill, a little vessel plowed bravely through a path of ice floes that choked the narrow Hell Gate channel. The vessel was bound for one of the city's islands with a cargo of supplies and was not to be delayed by a storm when supplies were needed for sick folks in a hospital.

Life in the harbor is active the year round, and nothing short of a real gale can stop the daily flow and ebb of river traffic. Hence throughout the most severe months of winter, when icy winds that cut like a knife cause real and intense suffering, multitudes of workers stick manfully to their tasks in order that the city may live in a store of fuel, food and other things so necessary to its existence. The marine workers to whom the inhabitants look for their subsistence cheerfully submit to these discomforts of the weather with frost-bitten hands and feet, bad colds and rheumatism and dozens of other ills.

Tugboats, the bulldogs of the harbor, are ever on the alert for a fight with the elements, and it takes more than a miniature gale or a bay full of drifting ice to discourage them.

Almost any day when near zero weather prevails they may be seen returning from some distant mission, their ice-encrusted prows gleaming and scintillating in the sunlight.

A Lot of Work to Be Done.

There is a deal of work to be accomplished daily in the harbor in winter. Big steamers have to be taken into the harbor and transferred from their anchorage to docks or repair shops; barges of all kinds carrying grain, sand, coal and other types of fuel are always being towed in and out from one freight terminal to another. Scows loaded with garbage flow in endless procession seaward.

Opposite the Seamen's church mission, at 25 South street, there is a veritable floating city of canal boats laid up for the winter; situated at other points along the waterfront there are other floating settlements of barges.

There are various types of marine workers. The majority of them, according to Capt. William A. Maher of the Associated Marine Workers, have steady work. The single crew tow-boat man works in the daytime. He may be ordered to work as early as 2 a. m., or may not have to report until 8 a. m. He quits work at 4 p. m. He does all kinds of towing. A good many vessels arrive here from Miami and other Florida points. His job is to help tow these vessels in and out of the harbor. He does not have any designated time for starting or quitting work, but works as the exigency of the situation requires. Captains average $150 to $200 a month, with board.

Double-Crew Six-Day Boats.

Workers on what are known as double-crew boats are in continuous service six days a week. They make trips to Long Island sound and take garbage to sea, and also do general towing in the harbor. Captains average from $200 to $260 a month. The men work in shifts and sleep on the boats.

The passenger-boat type is employed on excursion steamers. These workers begin their season about May 15 and quit about September 15. They work on excursion steamers plying between the city and Rye Beach, the Highlands, Bear mountain, Rockaway and Coney Island. They average 12 hours a day and work 7 days a week. Captains are paid from $200 to $350 a month and deckhands from $70 to $90 a month. Captains on this type of vessel sign contracts to work six months. They spend about four months in taking their vessels on excursions and the rest of the time in preparing the steamers for the season and in seeing that the boats are properly laid up for the winter.

These marine workers include masters, mates, pilots, engineers, officers, firemen, deckhands, cooks and float-men.

Naturally they know the harbor like a well-thumbed book and pride themselves in this dearly acquired knowledge. That all bad storms do not occur at sea they have ample stories to prove, and many of them have had stirring adventures in being adrift in the waters of the bay when their vessels were carried out of their course by terrific gales. In short, they have experienced shipwreck, fire and other dangers in the orderly pursuit of duty.

Stone Age City Found on Edge of Moscow

Moscow. — Russian archeologists have discovered on the outskirts of Moscow the remains of an ancient city, believed to date from the Fifth century before Christ, when stone tools were just beginning to be replaced by metal implements.

Iron arrows, knives, glass bracelets, bone combs and gold and silver jewelry were unearthed. Several examples of primitive pottery bearing designs for textiles also were found. The main occupation of the inhabitants, the archeologists say, was cattle breeding, hunting having played a minor role. Traces of an ancient Kremlin also were excavated.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"Why Men Leave Home," the smashing comedy success by Avery Hopwood, that most successful playwright, has been chosen for the week to be presented by the Hartman Stock company May 3, under the direction of John Hayden. Many metropolitan critics have claimed that this is Mr. Hopwood's best play, and when you take into consideration that he was also responsible for "The Bat" and many other successes, this belief certainly bespeaks much for this latest play, "Why Men Leave Home." It is also claimed that Mr. Hopwood has tapped a virgin theme in the theater. He has hit upon a topic so vital and so universal that every playwright has reason to chide himself that he or she had not thought of it. At the same time Mr. Hopwood has brilliantly evolved a story of beauty and as brimful of good cheer and laughs as any play bearing his name.

To divulge the story of the play would be to deprive you of a real thrill for it is most unusual and diverting in plot. That "Why Men Leave Home" sprang into instant favor with the New York theater-going public is not difficult to understand. The newspaper reviewers were more than enthusiastic in their praise of the play.

Jean Ford and Donn Cook will have excellent roles as will Georgia Neese, Martha Lee Manners, John Lott, Neil McFee and other members of the company, including William Ingersoll, Gilberta Faust, Forrest Orr.

The production will be complete in every way, as John Hayden, the director, saw the play produced in New York and has duplicated the sets, electrical effects and properties. Mr. Hayden's excellent direction of "Enchanted April," last week, with its beautiful setting, should be proof enough that Columbus will have the best in the future.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer. They will play your favorite piece if you request it.

Matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays. Out of town reservations will be taken care of.

AMUSEMENTS

William de Mille, whose latest Paramount production, "The Splendid Crime," at the Metropolitan theater, has every reason to feel pleased with his newest effort. It is a human and humorous little picture that stirs the emotions pleasantly. Mr. de Mille really deserves a double-barreled salvo of applause for he not only directed the photoplay, but wrote the story as well.

Bebe Daniels is the bright, shining star of this snappy, fun-filled comedy-drama, which deals with the experiences of a lovable little girl thief before and after she reforms. Having naively decided that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," Bebe considers the idea of going straight, but is persuaded by her two crook companions, one of whom is her foster father, to pull off just one more job.

This last job proves the turning point of her career, for she is caught by the youthful millionaire owner of the house she attempts to rob. Instead of handing her over to the police, he induces her to reform and lets her go. From that point the action is crowded with surprising developments that take an unexpected turn when Bebe commits "the splendid crime" to save the man she loves from turning crooked.

Bebe's admirers are sure to enjoy her performance as the ragged little Raffles. It is a part that suits her to the proverbial "T," and she plays it with intelligence and refreshing sincerity. Neil Hamilton is the gay society youth, who becomes Bebe's romantic ideal and for whom she makes the final sacrifice. Anne Cornwall and Anthony Jowitt are the other two principal players who do good work.

Loray, "The Girl With a Double Vision," will be at the Grand Opera house tonight.

Loray, marvel of the psychic, has astounded thousands of hearers by her remarkable demonstrations of occult science. This clever young mystic has a wonderfully pleasing personality and while she answers the hundreds of questions of personal and private nature, the occult powers of this wise young lady is never at fault.

It is almost impossible to believe that the ordinary mortal could perform the mysterious and bewildering things that she does. Questions dealing with love, business and purely personal matters are all answered rapidly and with surprising and amazing accuracy by her.

There are very few, if any, mind-readers on the vaudeville stage today, that answer questions so rapidly as Loray does. This gifted young lady is bringing a message to the people and is doing rare work in aiding thousands by her psychic information and advice that might be termed as of the uncanny sort.

Loray is the youngest and one of the best psychic sensations now touring vaudeville.

And a Coat of Paint?

The case grew out of her arrest recently when she drove an automobile clad in pajamas and a bathing suit. From a news item in a Washington paper.

Concerning Beans

Beans come on poker tables, stalks and people.

They were first invented by a man from Boston as a substitute for brains. Now they have become so nearly universal that they pass current in the highest intellectual circles.

Beans have always been on top, but that doesn't mean that they have always been in the ascendant. Both Caesar and Napoleon had good beans, but in the end they toppled. Topping through the ages has been the favorite sport of some of the most temporarily popular beans.

When your bean topples you say good night.—Boston Globe.

Penny for Your Thoughts

Elmo, likely named for St. Elmo of novel fame, though not much larger than a mamma doll, is six years old and entered school last fall as a beginner. His small size makes his actions appear more amusing and he soon became the center of attraction. He would do some fancy steps which he called dancing and for which he demanded a penny for each performance.

One day the teacher called on him to recite and back came the usual answer to requests, "Gimme a penny, then." The teacher and pupils had a hearty laugh without paying for it.—Indianapolis News.

It could hardly be called that.

GRAND JURY
WILL INDICT
WIFE SLAYER

Nesbitt Murder Case Submitted to Four Women and Eleven Men Jurors.

After hearing the various degrees of homicide minutely defined for their benefit by Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Jones, four women and eleven men went into the Miami county grand jury room at Troy Monday and assumed the obligation of returning an indictment against Jacob Nesbitt, Troy, confessed wife slayer.

Actual inquiry into the case will not be begun by them until Thursday noon, when the first of 79 witnesses summoned by Prosecutor L. E. Harvey will be ushered before them. Meanwhile they will consider evidence in several other cases.

Four members of the originally drawn grand jury were excused and replaced within an hour after court was convened. Among them is the only Troy person chosen. He is George T. Niswonger.

With the withdrawal from defense counsel Saturday of Roland W. Baggett and Don R. Thomas, Dayton law partners, and George Nye, Pike county prosecutor, the only counsel left to Nesbitt is L. H. Shipman, Troy, who has served him thus far without compensation. It is believed that Nesbitt will face the indictment as an indigent defendant, make his plea personally and accept the counsel designated for him by the court. The designation is expected to be Shipman.

WEIGH OLD MOTHER EARTH IN NEW TESTS AT WASHINGTON

Lengthy Undertaking Will Not Be Completed for Another Year and a Half.

Washington.—Old Mother Earth, who has been tipping the scientific scales for many years at round six thousand million million tons —six followed by twenty-one ciphers—is having her weight more accurately determined for posterity, but it is a lengthy undertaking and will not be completed for at least another year and a half.

The recent adoption by large oil companies of the instrument known as the torsion balance for finding oil deposits has brought to light the progress being made here in experiments with the same instrument to weigh the entire earth.

For three years Dr. Paul R. Heyl has been carrying on the patience-testing test in a small room thirty-five feet underground, at the bureau of standards. He has, on some occasions, held himself in one position there for more than nine hours at a time, so as not to disturb the sway of his delicate instruments. His sub-surface retreat was chosen to avoid interference by surface forces.

Thus far only one of three sets of observations has been completed, the second Doctor Heyl expects to finish by June, while the third will take another six months. Since mathematical computations are far behind the observations, it probably will be another year after the third observation is finished before a final figure is reached.

The weight of the earth is looked upon by Doctor Heyl as only a side issue in his experiment. For thirty years prior to the start of his work the law of gravitation had not been investigated, and what he mainly is seeking is another decimal for the 6.66 Newtonian constant, a numerical quantity used in determining the force of attraction between two given bodies.

When this figure, which has been tentatively found now to be 6.658, and others, is discovered with a greater degree of precision, a mathematical computation is expected by the scientist to reveal this long-hidden secret of the earth.

Doctor Heyl believes the earth is constantly gaining weight through the fall of meteors, but this increase is relatively so slight that it will not affect his experiments.

Expect New Serum to
Cut Pneumonia Deaths

Chester, Pa.—The discovery of a serum which, it is believed, will reduce the mortality rate of pneumonia to one-half was made by Prof. Frank Huntoon, medical director of the Mulford research laboratories at Glenolden.

"The discovery of Professor Huntoon ranks with one of the most important in modern medical annals," said Dr. H. L. Reese of the experimental department of the Glenoiden laboratories.

"It will save the lives of practically half of those who are afflicted with pneumonia, which has proved so deadly in this country."

"In one of the large New York hospitals," Doctor Reese said, "two wards were set aside for pneumonia patients in one of the wards the patients received the orthodox medical treatment for the disease. The other used the newly discovered serum. It was then discovered that in the ward where the serum was used the deaths resulting from the disease were cut in half."

Reporter Gets a Shock;
Identified as Robber

Washington.—Two newspaper reporters who obligingly stood beside two holdup suspects at police headquarters while the victim sought to identify his assailants, declare they won't do it again. The victim "positively" identified one of the writers as one of the men who robbed him and the police had to extricate the reporter by explaining the two were placed beside the suspects just to give the latter an even break.

LIGHTKEEPER'S DAUGHTER
SHOWS HERSELF HEROINE

Girl Marooned for Three Days and Nights Manages to Keep Beacons Blazing.

London.—A story of a girl's heroism in a lighthouse during a storm came from the Isle of Wight.

The light in St. Helen's lighthouse, near Cambridge, was kept flashing for three nights by the fourteen-year-old daughter of the lighthouse-keeper, Lantian. The girl was marooned there one recent afternoon without food, except one loaf of bread and a small piece of cake, but she carried out her father's duties valiantly.

Lantian and his wife in the afternoon rowed ashore in a rough sea to fetch food and oil to the lighthouse, says the Daily Mail. While they were ashore the sea rose in its fury, and, notwithstanding several attempts made in a lifeboat and motor boat, the father and mother were unable to return to the beacon.

Aside from anxiety for his daughter, left alone in the lighthouse with scarcely any food, Lantian worried as to whether she would realize the necessity to light the lamp, which is one of the most important along the coast. Great was his relief when punctually the light beamed and remained flashing throughout the night.

The gale raged all the next day, making vain the attempts of the lifeboat men and fishermen to take the keeper back. Again night fell, and again the light shone at the appointed hour. As time passed the anxiety of the parents deepened; they pictured the girl as hungry, and perhaps frightened and going without sleep.

They and the girl, however, were doomed to continue the ordeal, for the following day the gale was worse and passage across the three miles of raging seas was impossible.

The third night came, and again the light gleamed forth at the proper hour, as if the lighthouse-keeper himself had been there at his task. Not until five o'clock in the afternoon did the seas abate sufficiently to enable the parents to return. They reached the lighthouse in a motor boat. This was so badly buffeted by the waves that the crew did not venture to return to the mainland.

As the flash worked regularly while Mr. and Mrs. Lantian were ashore, it was evident that the girl kept awake at night and wound every four hours the clockwork apparatus which turns the light.

Women of Note Who Use Knitting Needles

The beautiful queen of Rumania, Marie, is a knitter of fame. Busy ruler that she is, popular hostess, conscientious mother and wife, the queen believes in occupation for the hands and whenever she has a spare moment she knits scarfs, sweaters and other garments which her daughters wear. It is said by medical men that knitting soothes the nerves and rests the doer. Certain it is that women who hold positions which make great demand upon the nervous system, like Queen Marie, find the time and inclination to ply knitting needles, fashioning one strand of yarn into beautiful garments. Her majesty Queen Marie is said to do exquisite work with knitting needles. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, whose life as First Lady of the United States, is one round of engagements, knits. Gov. Nellie Ross knits and makes hooked rugs. Ex-Empress Ita also knits. Society women no longer indulge in idleness. Occupation of the hands, knitting preferred, is said now to be the vogue.

Bright Colors in Favor for Spring

Reds That Verge on Violet Are Popular; Blues, Yellows and Greens.

Every season, seemingly, there is some color surprise in store for us. Some shade or color that we had considered only an "also ran" suddenly takes a spurt, and for a time at least leads the race.

Already we have a quite interesting list of colors to select from. And in planning your spring wardrobe you must consider them.

Reds that verge on the violet have been gaining ground, as against their rivals, reds that verge on the orange. Thus the rose shades prevail over the flame and tomato shades. With this state of affairs it is perhaps not surprising that violet and purple have come into their own, and in the new hats and wraps and frocks for spring show considerable ascendancy over orange—the color that occupies the same position between red and blue. And to follow out the contrast blues seem to gain ground—while yellows are playing not so conspicuous a role as they did last year at this time. There always seems to be some such focussing of the interest or attention on some one part of the rainbow.

Blue-lavender, or violet-blue, is spoken of in connection with the new thin frocks for spring. In general it is the lavenders and purples toward the blue end, rather than toward the red end, that look smartest at the present time.

There is a soft light shade of blue known as Princess Mary blue—and a deeper shade is Elizabeth blue—that is chosen for sport frocks and felt hats.

Gobelin blue, named of course after the famous tapestries of the name, is stressed by some dressmakers for afternoon frocks.

Brittany blue is a heavenly blue. It is a clear, refreshing shade—to match the sky on a bright spring day, but there is none of that intense brightness that makes some shades of blue difficult to wear. Cathedral blue is a fashionable new tone. If you would know its prototype you must gaze on the windows of the Cathedral of Chartres, in France. Blue lavender is the name given to the present-day version of pervenche. If you want to be very up-to-date call your greenish-blue Mediterranean blue. That is the smart name for it.

The very name of peppermint green has an appeal. One thinks of those flavormore confections, sugary peppermint creams. The color is clear and vibrant—yet not at all strident. It lends itself well to the flat, dull-surfaced silks that are chosen now so often for simple daytime frocks.

Absinthe green seems to command special favor. So far it would seem that in Paris yellowish greens of this sort are to be smarter for spring than the more verdant shades, such as peppermint, which has been commanding attention in southern resorts here.

Striped Sport Hat; It Is of Silk Grosgrain

This chic striped sport hat is of silk grosgrain in colors of black, tan and red, with large red glass buttons at the side.

Have Jeweled Heels for Shoes to Match Gowns

While shoe ornamentation has frequently been concentrated at the rear, it is only of late that fancy heels have been available without an accompanying shoe. Now they may be selected in carved or gilded wood, enameled or jeweled design, plain bright colors, or odd metallic combinations such as brass and gunmetal. This new addition to the jewel casket suggests infinite possibilities of matching and blending with minor accessories or major garments. In London, it is said, women match their stockings to the heels of their bizarre shoes. But there is no reason why the idea should not be carried further—and undoubtedly it will.

Robe de Style

One of the most charming examples of the robe de style is a model made of changeable rose and blue taffeta, with the full skirt shorter in front than in back and lined with deep rose faille. A tiny collar of silver lace outlines the pointed décolletage.

WET PRATFOM IS OFFERED

By Woman Who Seeks Democratic Nomination For Governorship of Texas To Succeed "Ma" Ferguson.

San Antonio, Texas, May 1.—Voicing her disapproval of the prohibition laws, Mrs. K. M. Johnson, San Antonio, today made formal announcement of her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mrs. Johnson seeks to succeed Miriam A. Ferguson, whose office also is sought by Mrs. Edith Wilkins, Dallas, and several men.

Mrs. Johnson, formerly operator of hotels in North Texas, and now owner of a ranch in Mexico, declared she was opposed to prohibition because it had proved to be "an utter failure."

"I have been temperate all my life," she said, "never having taken a drink of intoxicating beverages, but I disapprove of prohibition because it has proved to be an utter failure."

"It has been impossible for the number of officials who would enforce the law to do so * * *."

"It has been making drunkards, invalids and imbeciles of the boys and girls of our country, almost yet in their infancy. It has made open bootlegging rendezvous of many of our highways, homes, hotels and clubs."

Kept Record Straight

The record in school attendance for Monmouthshire, England, has been created by Cora Price, fifteen-year-old daughter of a Varteg miner, who has not been late or absent once in ten years, says the London Mail.

From her home at the top of a mountain, the girl struggled through the snowstorms which occurred shortly before Christmas, in order that her record might not be spoiled.

CIRCLEVILLE EAGLES DEFEATED BY CLOSE SCORE

Chauncey A. C. 2, F. O. Eagles 1
In First Game of the Local Season Sunday.

The Circleville Eagles were forced to take the little end of a 2 to 1 score in the lid-lifter of the local diamond season yesterday, losing to the well-known Chauncey A. C. by that very slender margin. For a first game, it was an exceptionally well-played game, and it was always interesting to the fans in attendance. There is every indication that Circleville is going to have a team to be proud of this year, backed by the local Eagle lodge which has been following a policy of supporting good athletics, for several years.

The weather was ideal for a ball game—hot enough to warm the joints and aid free motion, and with a gentle tempering breeze blowing from the cloudless western sky. It was such a day that everyone loves to be outdoors, and so was ideal from the fans' standpoint. The infield was lightning fast, and the grass in the outfield green and refreshing to the eye, bored with too much snow. There was an attendance of about three hundred, which was not all it should have been, but it was a well-pleased crowd, and big enough to pay expenses. Frank Davis handled the umpiring in his usual fair and square manner and there were no kicks coming on this score.

There were only a few of the old-time lineup in evidence in the game, but one or two of the old favorites were there. Os Miller was capering around the initial sack and stopping any and all throws with his accustomed ease. Behmer was the same old deep well in the left garden. Turk Baucher was brought in from the fly chasers and started in the box. This lad shows a lot of promise, not allowing a hit or ball out of the diamond in his three stanzas, after which he was lifted to give a try to some of the other heavies. It might have been better to let him stay awhile. Dick McCollister is also well known. He played second and showed a mighty clean set of spikes on the paths.

Gump is a new one on the fans but he looks like a find as a catcher. He accounted for the local's lone score, and contributed a pair of bingles, besides backstopping well. Rector, who pitched the final three and two-thirds innings, also looks good, as does Frank Greeno, of Stoutsville, who chased flies in right. O'Donnell, at short made one hit, and several neat stops.

Bowling pitched a nice game for the visitors, and was very ably backed up by all his teammates. One high spot was Kulik's startling one-hand catch of Greeno's liner in deep right field. Darnell and Figgins led the attack with a double apiece.

First inning—Chauncey, Smith flied to Miller, Kranyik did the same; Swyers was safe on Cummins' error, and Darnell flied to Greeno. One error.

Eagles, Greeno out, bowling to Darnell; Cummins popped to short, and Os flied to Madison.

Second inning—Chauncey, Kulik out Cummins to Miller; Madison and Figgins, O'Donnell to Miller.

Circleville, Gump singled; McCollister flied to Kranyik; O'Donnell singled; Behmer and Rector fanned. No runs, two hits. It looked like a sure score with second and third both occupied.

Third—Chauncey, Russell popped to O'Donnell; Bowling whiffed; Smith popped to O'Donnell.

Circleville, Baucher, Cummins Fourth — Chauncey, (Imler pitching for Circleville), Kranyik tried to stretch a single and was chased down, Miller making the out; Swyers struck out; Darnell hit a beautiful double, but tried to make third and was out, Greeno to O'Donnell to Cummins.

Eagles, Miller singled and took second when Kranyik threw to first, 'twas very nice of Kranyik; Gump singled and Miller was held at second; Miller attempted to steal third and was almost chased to earth, but the third baseman dropped the ball when Os ran into him; Gump went to second; Miller was coached to go home, but it was a mistake and he was caught; McCollister hit and Gump scored. Mac stole and next two; O'Donnell flied and Behmer was out in the infield.

Fifth—Chauncey, Kulik fanned; Madison was passed and Figgins busted out a screaming two-bagger. Imler was derrick and Owens went in. Russell out, Gump to Miller, and Bowling flied to Behmer.

Circleville, Rector was safe on Russell's error; Owens fanned; Greeno flied to second and Cummins failed to beat a bunt.

Sixth—Chauncey, Smith singled; he took second on Gump's miss; Kranyik sacrificed; Swyers made first on O'Donnell's boot, he took second; Darnell doubled, scoring Smith and Swyers; Darnell went to third on a wild pitch and Owens was yanked in favor of Rector; Crites went to the garden. Kulik walked; Madison fanned; Figgins out, Gump to Miller. It was the big inning for the visitors.

Circleville, Miller, out, short to first; Gump fouled to first; McCollister struck out.

Seventh — Chauncey, Russell out; Bowling walked; Smith fanned and Kranyik out from Gump to Os.

Circleville, O'Donnell and Behmer fanned; Rector drew a walk, but was out on a fielder's choice on Crites' scratch.

Eighth—Chauncey, Swyers was hit on the shoulder and stole second; Darnell and Kulik struck at three; Madison popped to O'Donnell.

Circleville, Greeno flied to Kulik, who made a great one-hand catch; Cummins out from Smith to Darnell, and Miller struck out.

Ninth—Chauncey, Figgins and Russell fanned and Bowling flied to Russell.

Circleville, Gump struck out; McCollister out, and O'Donnell fouled out to Darnell.

It was a good ball game and a big crowd should be on hand next week.

Great Activity of Associations

Render Some Essential Service Connected With Farmers' Enterprises.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are now more than 12,000 active farmers' business organizations in the United States, the Department of Agriculture estimates on the basis of a recent survey. This number is more than twice that in 1915, when the first nation-wide survey of co-operative associations was made by the department.

Included in Associations. The associations include those selling farm products, buying farm supplies, operating creameries, cheese factories, canning plants, grain elevators, stockyards, warehouses, or rendering some one or more of the essential services connected with the conduct of farmers' enterprises. The figures do not include farmers' co-operative banks, credit associations, nor insurance companies.

Fifty-four of the associations listed are federations with local units, 49 are sales agencies operating in central markets, 35 are bargaining associations, and 98 are large-scale organizations of the centralized type. Of the total number of associations listed by the department, 3,325 are primarily engaged in marketing grain, 2,197 handle dairy products, 1,770 ship live stock, 1,250 market fruits and vegetables; 121 perform various functions in the marketing of cotton, 91 in marketing wool, 71 in marketing poultry or poultry products, and 24 in marketing tobacco.

In North Central States. More than 70 per cent of all the associations are in the 12 North Central states. Approximately 6 per cent are in the three Pacific Coast states, and less than 3 per cent in the six New England states. The largest number of associations reporting from any one state is 1,383 from Minnesota. Iowa is credited with 1,094 associations, Wisconsin 1,092, and Illinois 822. Missouri has 537 associations; Nebraska, 488; Kansas, 466; California, 350, and New York, 286.

The grain marketing associations are largely in the 12 North Central states, as are also the greater number of the live-stock shipping associations. The organizations engaged in marketing dairy products are scattered through the country with a fair percentage of the total number in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

FIGHT ON HAUGEN FARM RELIEF BILL

OHIO WITHDRAWS SUPPORT FROM THE PRICE FIXING LAW

The Farm Bureau Federation Favours Passage of the Tinch House Bill and the Capper Senate Bill Which Are Almost Identical, But Apparently Is Only Lukewarm On It--It Has the "Greatest Possibility For Good and the Smallest Chance For Evil."

Ohio Farm Bureau organization renewed its fight on the Haugen farm relief bill Monday, as the senate committee prepared to hold hearings on it. Support at first accorded the measure in Ohio was withdrawn when the law was amended last week it "virtually a price-fixing law," officers of the federation said.

The bill in its present form carries an appropriation of $375,000,000 and creates a complicated and elaborate federal machinery to prevent price fluctuation in farm produce.

A board created by the law would be empowered to buy any crop of which it decided there was a surplus, thus keeping the price high on this particular product in a season of large production. The board then would sell this crop in other countries, at a loss if necessary, and assess this loss pro rata on the producer.

The assessment feature would become operative in two years.

For example, in 1925, when there was a bumper corn crop, the board, operating under this law, would have bought corn in quantities large enough to hold the price up in this country.

It would have exported this corn and assessed any loss in this marketing back against the farmers who produced the corn. Details of the assessing of such losses have not been worked out in the bill and would be in the hands of the board.

It amounts virtually to a subsidy for farmers, and creates a complex costly machinery which could not possibly operate to the advantage of the American public, L. B. Palmer, president of the federation, declared Monday. It would not benefit either the farmer or the general public and is a type of legislation the farmer is anxious to avoid, in that its aim is to enrich him at the expense of business in general. Such a law, even if it worked, would react unfavorably upon the farmer in a short time, Mr. Palmer said.

He wired Senators Fess and Willis Monday of the position of the federation following receipt of wires from most of the directors urging opposition to the Haugen bill.

In its original form the bill merely set up a division of cooperative marketing in the U. S. department of agriculture, and appropriated $250,000 for research work. In that form it was approved by farm bureaus throughout the country, Mr. Palmer said. Sentiment now is divided among the organizations, with most states apparently opposing the scheme, Mr. Palmer said.

The federation favors passage of the Tinch house bill and the Capper senate bill, which are almost identical but apparently is only lukewarm on it. It has the "greatest possibility for good and the smallest chance for evil" effects of any of the farm bills now before congress, is the way federation officers sum it up.

Both bills propose to appropriate $100,000,000 which is to be loaned to cooperative marketing organizations on the same basis as the federal farm loans. It also creates an advisory board of marketing. The Aswell bill, which establishes a similar board but compels it to act as a marketing organization, is opposed by the farm bureau.

COUNTY HEALTH BOARD.

The advisory council, a body composed of the mayors of villages outside of the county seat and presidents of township boards of trustees met Monday to elect a successor to George Kirkpatrick, whose term on the county board of health had expired. NEXT MEETING OF W. C. T. U. AT HOSPITAL

Motion Pictures Discussed and Splendid Program Rendered on May Third.

A most enjoyable evening was spent last Friday by the Circleville W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Abbie Gussman on East Franklin street.

The meeting opened in charge of President Mrs. Lulu Marion, who read the scripture lesson and led in the Lord's prayer. The song, "America, the Beautiful," then was sung and the roll call was followed by responses clipped from the Union Signal.

A short business session then took place, during which it was decided to have the next meeting the last Friday in May, an all day meeting at the Home and Hospital. Miss Lydia Leist was appointed chairman on arrangements.

It was decided to send the Afghan recently finished by Mrs. Mary Rife for the Union to the Veterans' camp at Chillicothe. A committee composed of Mrs. Rife, Miss Anna Kirkwood and Miss Charlotte Phelps was appointed to take it there.

The program of the evening was then taken up under the leadership of Mrs. Bessie Long. Her subject was "Motion Pictures."

In a short talk Mrs. Long brought out the appeal of the cinema in a threefold manner: First—physical, its reaction upon the physical body; second—mental, its effect upon the mind and emotions; third, spiritual—does it tend to higher ideals or does it lead to lower ones? She concluded that the motion pictures are here to stay and we, as a Union, must do our part to secure clean, safe, pictures. Do not censure without seeing, and stand by our boys and girls, to give them wholesome amusement without taint.

A leaflet, "Play of Work," by Maud Aldrich, director of the motion pictures of the W. C. T. U., was read by Miss Mabel Heise.

A pretty piano duet was then given by the Misses Verda and Katherine Eymann. Reading, "Why Censorship?" by Miss Katherine Hill; vocal solo, "Sin Will not Have Dominion Over Me," by Miss Ada Burgett.

Miss Charlotte Phelps then gave a talk on "Movies," good or bad, some experiences of her own from a professional standpoint, and the broad, open attitude the W. C. T. U. should take. Her talk was much enjoyed by all.

The last number on the program was a piano solo by Dorothy Glick. The Union had as guests about twelve young women who added much to the evening's enjoyment by their presence and cooperation.

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, chocolate and homemade cake were then served after the W. C. T. U. benediction.

"Bohemium" Discovered

Everything on earth—fire, water, dirt, plants and animals—everything in the whole visible universe, including the sun, planets and stars, is made up of less than 100 different substances called "elements." Most of these have been found, numbered and put in order according to the structure of their atoms. A few gaps remain.

Drs. J. Heyrovsky and Doleyssek of Prague, Czechoslovakia, have announced the discovery of No. 75, one of the missing elements, says Popular Science Monthly. They have named it "bohemia" in honor of Bohemia. Not long ago three German scientists claimed to have discovered 75, too, and also 43. If these two are verified, then only three missing chemical elements will remain to be discovered—Nos. 61, 85 and 87.

SPEEDERS HALTED BY ROAD MAGNETS

Automatic Device Slows Down Autos to Safe Gait at Grade Crossings.

A novel and fascinating idea came to Charles Adler of Baltimore, Md., one evening not long ago, as he sat by his laboratory window and watched the twinkling lights of commuters' trains flashing by in the railroad yards below. He contrasted their orderly operation with the helter-skelter rush of home-going automobiles on the road that crossed the railroad tracks at the end of the yard.

"Why not," he thought, "apply a little signal engineering to the problem of preventing auto accidents at grade crossings? Surely there must be some way to keep the reckless driver from committing suicide—force him to drive carefully whether he wants to or not."

Adler set to work to solve the problem. As a result, he has invented a system that automatically slows down the fast-driven car as it approaches the railroad crossing. No matter how hard the driver steps on the throttle, the car will not travel at a speed greater than fifteen miles an hour until it has passed the crossing.

The device, described in the June Popular Science Monthly, consists essentially of a powerful magnet concealed in a concrete box beneath the surface of the roadway at the proper distance from the railroad crossing. As the approaching car passes over a magnet, the latter operates a system of relays and a governor so designed that it will allow current to flow through the automobile ignition system at speeds below fifteen miles an hour, but cuts it off when the car is traveling faster than that rate.

This action continues until another road magnet at the danger point is reached, when the ignition circuit is restored to its normal path. The road magnets are made up of flat strips of magnetized steel, placed side by side in the concrete beneath the road surface.

This remarkable invention may help to solve other important traffic problems besides that of the railroad grade crossing. Controlling magnets could be placed at any point where slow and careful operation of automobiles is necessary for the public safety.

Had Him Puzzled

The teacher was showing the children how to form the figures from 1 to 12. After writing them on the blackboard several times she told the children to write them in their exercise books from memory.

When, later, she looked at the books she found that one little boy had written the numbers correctly up to ten, but instead of the figure 11, he had written only 1.

"Why, what is the meaning of this, Jackie Jones?" she asked, pointing out the solitary figure.

"Please, teacher," he said, "I didn't know on which side of the 1 to put the other 1."—Pearson's.

Go-Getting Is Not All

But with our industry we must likewise be steady, settled and careful and oversee our own affairs with our own eyes and not trust too much to others.—Benjamin Franklin.

Possibilities Open for Farm Storage of Grain

The farmer has the choice of three places for storing his grain in order to hold it for a favorable market, it is explained by L. F. Rickey, grain marketing specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. These three places are: (1) in cribs or granaries on his own farm, (2) elevators or cribs at his shipping point, or (3) at the terminal elevators. In order to hold his grain, it is often necessary for the farmer to borrow money upon it as collateral.

When it is in public elevators at the terminal markets he can readily borrow on the warehouse certificates, but the cost of such storage is rather high. Storage in the local elevator has advantages, but these houses are not large enough to actually store very much grain and many elevators refuse this class of business or limit the time of storage to a comparatively short period.

Farm cattle and granaries offer the cheapest storage for grain crops and this method has several other apparent advantages. However, no one would care to loan money on grain so located. Iowa has solved this part of the problem by its unbonded agricultural warehouse law. Under its provisions cribs or granaries are officially sealed and storage certificates issued which are acceptable to local bankers as collateral for loans. The grain thereby finances its holding for a favorable market.

Last Day of Carnival

"Mardi Gras" gets its name from the French practice of parading a fat ox (boeuf gras) during the celebration of the day. The name means fat Tuesday, "Mardi" being the French for Tuesday. It is the last day of carnival, the latter comprising the last three days before Lent, the feast or season of rejoicing observed with public merriment, revelry and feasts.

HARBOR SAILING
FULL OF THRILLS

Storms and Frigid Temperature, All Part of the Day's Work.

New York.—During a recent cold spell, when the harbor was swept by angry winds and navigation was at a standstill, a little vessel plowed bravely through a path of ice floes that choked the narrow Hell Gate channel. The vessel was bound for one of the city's islands with a cargo of supplies and was not to be delayed by a storm when supplies were needed for sick folks in a hospital.

Life in the harbor is active the year round, and nothing short of a real gale can stop the daily flow and ebb of river traffic. Hence throughout the most severe months of winter, when icy winds that cut like a knife cause real and intense suffering, multitudes of workers stick manfully to their tasks in order that the city may lay in a store of fuel, food and other things so necessary to its existence. The marine workers to whom the inhabitants look for their subsistence cheerfully submit to these discomforts of the weather with frost-bitten hands and feet, bad colds and rheumatism and dozens of other ills.

Tugboats, the bulldogs of the harbor, are ever on the alert for a fight with the elements, and it takes more than a miniature gale or a bay full of drifting ice to discourage them.

Almost any day when near zero weather prevails they may be seen returning from some distant mission, their ice-encrusted prows gleaming and scintillating in the sunlight.

A Lot of Work to Be Done.

There is a deal of work to be accomplished daily in the harbor in winter. Big steamers have to be taken into the harbor and transferred from their anchorage to docks or repair shops; barges of all kinds carrying grain, sand, coal and other types of fuel are always being towed in and out from one freight terminal to another. Scows loaded with garbage flow in endless procession seaward. Opposite the Seamen's church mission, at 25 South street, there is a veritable floating city of canal boats laid up for the winter; situated at other points along the waterfront there are other floating settlements of barges.

There are various types of marine workers. The majority of them, according to Capt. William A. Maher of the Associated Marine Workers, have steady work. The single crew tow-boat man works in the daytime. He may be ordered to work as early as 2 a. m., or may not have to report until 8 a. m. He quits work at 4 p. m. He does all kinds of towing. A good many vessels arrive here from Miami and other Florida points. His job is to help tow these vessels in and out of the harbor. He does not have any designated time for starting or quitting work, but works as the exigency of the situation requires. Captains average $150 to $200 a month, with board.

Double-Crew Six-Day Boats.

Workers on what are known as double-crew boats are in continuous service six days a week. They make trips to Long Island sound and take garbage to sea, and also do general towing in the harbor. Captains average from $200 to $260 a month. The men work in shifts and sleep on the boats.

The passenger-boat type is employed on excursion steamers. These workers begin their season about May 15 and quit about September 15. They work on excursion steamers plying between the city and Rye Beach, the Highlands, Bear mountain, Rockaway and Coney Island. They average 12 hours a day and work 7 days a week. Captains are paid from $200 to $350 a month and deckhands from $70 to $90 a month. Captains on this type of vessel sign contracts to work six months. They spend about four months in taking their vessels on excursions and the rest of the time in preparing the steamers for the season and in seeing that the boats are properly laid up for the winter.

These marine workers include masters, mates, pilots, engineers, oilers, firemen, deckhands, cooks and float-men.

Naturally they know the harbor like a well-thumbed book and pride themselves in this dearly acquired knowledge. That all bad storms do not occur at sea they have ample stories to prove, and many of them have had stirring adventures in being adrift in the waters of the bay when their vessels were carried out of their course by terrific gales. In short, they have experienced shipwreck, fire and other dangers in the orderly pursuit of duty.

Stone Age City Found on Edge of Moscow

Moscow. — Russian archeologists have discovered on the outskirts of Moscow the remains of an ancient city, believed to date from the Fifth century before Christ, when stone tools were just beginning to be replaced by metal implements.

Iron arrows, knives, glass bracelets, bone combs and gold and silver jewelry were unearthed. Several examples of primitive pottery bearing designs for textiles also were found. The main occupation of the inhabitants, the archeologists say, was cattle breeding, hunting having played a minor role. Traces of an ancient Kremlin also were excavated.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"Why Men Leave Home," the smashing comedy success by Avery Hopwood, that most successful playwright, has been chosen for the week play to be presented by the Hartman Stock company May 3, under the direction of John Hayden. Many metropolitan critics have claimed that this is Mr. Hopwood's best play, and when you take into consideration that he was also responsible for "The Bat" and many other successes, this belief certainly bespeaks much for this latest play, "Why Men Leave Home." It is also claimed that Mr. Hopwood has tapped a virgin theme in the theater. He has hit upon a topic so vital and so universal that every playwright has reason to chide himself that he or she had not thought of it. At the same time Mr. Hopwood has brilliantly evolved a story of beauty and as brimful of good cheer and laughs as any play bearing his name.

To divulge the story of the play would be to deprive you of a real thrill for it is most unusual and diverting in plot. That "Why Men Leave Home" sprang into instant favor with the New York theater-going public is not difficult to understand. The newspaper reviewers were more than enthusiastic in their praise of the play.

Jean Ford and Donn Cook will have excellent roles as will Georgia Neese, Martha Lee Manners, John Lott, Neil McFee and other members of the company, including William Ingersoll, Gilberta Faust, Forrest Orr.

The production will be complete in every way, as John Hayden, the director, saw the play produced in New York and has duplicated the sets, electrical effects and properties. Mr. Hayden's excellent direction of "Enchanted April," last week, with its beautiful setting, should be proof enough that Columbus will have the best in the future.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer. They will play your favorite piece if you request it.

Matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays. Out of town reservations will be taken care of.

AMUSEMENTS

William de Mille, whose latest Paramount production, "The Splendid Crime," at the Metropolitan theater, has every reason to feel pleased with his newest effort. It is a human and humorous little picture that stirs the emotions pleasantly. Mr. de Mille really deserves a double-barreled salvo of applause for he not only directed the photoplay, but wrote the story as well.

Bebe Daniels is the bright, shining star of this snappy, fun-filled comedy-drama, which deals with the experiences of a lovable little girl thief before and after she reforms. Having naively decided that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," Bebe considers the idea of going straight, but is persuaded by her two crook companions, one of whom is her foster father, to pull off just one more job.

This last job proves the turning point of her career, for she is caught by the youthful millionaire owner of the house she attempts to rob. Instead of handing her over to the police, he induces her to reform and lets her go. From that point the action is crowded with surprising developments that take an unexpected turn when Bebe commits "the splendid crime" to save the man she loves from turning crooked.

Bebe's admirers are sure to enjoy her performance as the ragged little Raffles. It is a part that suits her to the proverbial "T," and she plays it with intelligence and refreshing sincerity. Neil Hamilton is the gay society youth, who becomes Bebe's romantic ideal and for whom she makes the final sacrifice. Anne Cornwall and Anthony Jowitt are the other two principal players who do good work.

Loray, "The Girl With a Double Vision," will be at the Grand Opera house tonight.

Loray, marvel of the psychic, has astounded thousands of hearers by her remarkable demonstrations of occult science. This clever young mystic has a wonderfully pleasing personality and while she answers the hundreds of questions of personal and private nature, the occult powers of this wise young lady is never at fault.

It is almost impossible to believe that the ordinary mortal could perform the mysterious and bewildering things that she does. Questions dealing with love, business and purely personal matters are all answered rapidly and with surprising and amazing accuracy by her.

There are very few, if any, mind-readers on the vaudeville stage today, that answer questions so rapidly as Loray does. This gifted young lady is bringing a message to the people and is doing rare work in aiding thousands by her psychic information and advice that might be termed as of the uncanny sort.

Loray is the youngest and one of the best psychic sensations now touring vaudeville.

And a Coat of Paint?

The case grew out of her arrest recently when she drove an automobile clad in pajamas and a bathing suit. From a news item in a Washington paper.

Concerning Beans

Beans come on poker tables, stalks and people.

They were first invented by a man from Boston as a substitute for brains. Now they have become so nearly universal that they pass current in the highest intellectual circles.

Beans have always been on top, but that doesn't mean that they have always been in the ascendant. Both Caesar and Napoleon had good beans, but in the end they toppled. Toppling through the ages has been the favorite sport of some of the most temporarily popular beans.

When your bean topples you say good night.—Boston Globe.

Penny for Your Thoughts

Elmo, likely named for St. Elmo of novel fame, though not much larger than a mamma doll, is six years old and entered school last fall as a beginner. His small size makes his actions appear more amusing and he soon became the center of attraction. He would do some fancy steps which he called dancing and for which he demanded a penny for each performance.

One day the teacher called on him to recite and back came the usual answer to requests. "Gimme a penny, then." The teacher and pupils had a hearty laugh without paying for it.—Indianapolis News.

It could hardly be called that.

GRAND JURY
WILL INDICT
WIFE SLAYER

Nesbitt Murder Case Submitted to Four Women and Eleven Men Jurors.

After hearing the various degrees of homicide minutely defined for their benefit by Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Jones, four women and eleven men went into the Miami county grand jury room at Troy Monday and assumed the obligation of returning an indictment against Jacob Nesbitt, Troy, confessed wife slayer.

Actual inquiry into the case will not be begun by them until Thursday noon, when the first of 79 witnesses summoned by Prosecutor L. E. Harvey will be ushered before them. Meanwhile they will consider evidence in several other cases.

Four members of the originally drawn grand jury were excused and replaced within an hour after court was convened. Among them is the only Troy person chosen. He is George T. Niswonger.

With the withdrawal from defense counsel Saturday of Roland W. Baggett and Don R. Thomas, Dayton law partners, and George Nye, Pike county prosecutor, the only counsel left to Nesbitt is L. H. Shipman, Troy, who has served him thus far without compensation. It is believed that Nesbitt will face the indictment as an indigent defendant, make his plea personally and accept the counsel designated for him by the court. The designation is expected to be Shipman.

WEIGH OLD MOTHER EARTH IN NEW TESTS AT WASHINGTON

Lengthy Undertaking Will Not Be Completed for Another Year and a Half.

Washington.—Old Mother Earth, who has been tipping the scientific scales for many years at round six thousand million million million tons—six followed by twenty-one ciphers—is having her weight more accurately determined for posterity, but it is a lengthy undertaking and will not be completed for at least another year and a half.

The recent adoption by large oil companies of the instrument known as the torsion balance for finding oil deposits has brought to light the progress being made here in experiments with the same instrument to weigh the entire earth.

For three years Dr. Paul R. Heyl has been carrying on the patience-testing test in a small room thirty-five feet underground, at the bureau of standards. He has, on some occasions, held himself in one position there for more than nine hours at a time, so as not to disturb the sway of his delicate instruments. His subterranean retreat was chosen to avoid interference by surface forces.

Thus far only one of three sets of observations has been completed, the second Doctor Heyl expects to finish by June, while the third will take another six months. Since mathematical computations are far behind the observations, it probably will be another year after the third observation is finished before a final figure is reached.

The weight of the earth is looked upon by Doctor Heyl as only a side issue in his experiment. For thirty years prior to the start of his work the law of gravitation had not been investigated, and what he mainly is seeking is another decimal for the 6.66 Newtonian constant, a numerical quantity used in determining the force of attraction between two given bodies.

When this figure, which has been tentatively found now to be 6.658, and others, is discovered with a greater degree of precision, a mathematical computation is expected by the scientist to reveal this long-hidden secret of the earth.

Doctor Heyl believes the earth is constantly gaining weight through the fall of meteors, but this increase is relatively so slight that it will not affect his experiments.

Expect New Serum to Cut Pneumonia Deaths

Chester, Pa.—The discovery of a serum which, it is believed, will reduce the mortality rate of pneumonia to one-half was made by Prof. Frank Hinton, medical director of the Mulford research laboratories at Glenolden.

"The discovery of Professor Hinton ranks with one of the most important in modern medical annals," said Dr. H. L. Reese of the experimental department of the Glenolden laboratories.

"It will save the lives of practically half of those who are afflicted with pneumonia, which has proved so deadly in this country."

"In one of the large New York hospitals," Doctor Reese said, "two wards were set aside for pneumonia patients. In one of the wards the patients received the orthodox medical treatment for the disease. The other used the newly discovered serum. It was there discovered that in the ward where the serum was used the deaths resulting from the disease were cut in half."

Reporter Gets a Shock;
Identified as Robber

Washington.—Two newspaper reporters who obligingly stood beside two holdup suspects at police headquarters while the victim sought to identify his assailants, declare they won't do it again. The victim "positively" identified one of the writers as one of the men who robbed him and the police had to extricate the reporter by explaining the two were placed beside the suspects just to give the latter an even break.

LIGHTKEEPER'S DAUGHTER
SHOWS HERSELF HEROINE

Girl Marooned for Three Days and Nights Manages to Keep Beacons Blazing.

London.—A story of a girl's heroism in a lighthouse during a storm came from the Isle of Wight.

The light in St. Helen's lighthouse, near Cambridge, was kept flashing for three nights by the fourteen-year-old daughter of the lighthouse-keeper, Langtan. The girl was marooned there one recent afternoon without food, except one loaf of bread and a small piece of cake, but she carried out her father's duties valiantly.

Langtan and his wife in the afternoon rowed ashore in a rough sea to fetch food and oil to the lighthouse, says the Daily Mail. While they were ashore the sea rose in its fury, and notwithstanding several attempts made in a lifeboat and motor boat, the father and mother were unable to return to the beacon.

Aside from anxiety for his daughter, left alone in the lighthouse with scarcely any food, Langtan worried as to whether she would realize the necessity to light the lamp, which is one of the most important along the coast. Great was his relief when punctually the light beamed and remained flashing throughout the night.

The gale raged all the next day, making vain the attempts of the lifeboat men and fishermen to take the keeper back. Again night fell, and again the light shone at the appointed hour. As time passed the anxiety of the parents deepened; they pictured the girl, as hungry, and perhaps frightened and going without sleep.

They and the girl, however, were doomed to continue the ordeal, for the following day the gale was worse and passage across the three miles of raging seas was impossible.

The third night came, and again the light gleamed forth at the proper hour, as if the lighthouse-keeper himself had been there at his task. Not until five o'clock in the afternoon did the seas abate sufficiently to enable the parents to return. They reached the lighthouse in a motor boat. This was so badly buffeted by the waves that the crew did not venture to return to the mainland.

As the flash worked regularly while Mr. and Mrs. Langtan were ashore, it was evident that the girl kept awake at night and wound every four hours the clockwork apparatus which turns the light.

Women of Note Who Use Knitting Needles

The beautiful queen of Rumania, Marie, is a knitter of fame. Busy ruler that she is, popular hostess, conscientious mother and wife, the queen believes in occupation for the hands and whenever she has a spare moment she knits scarfs, sweaters and other garments which her daughters wear. It is said by medical men that knitting soothes the nerves and rests the doer. Certain it is that women who hold positions which make great demand upon the nervous system, like Queen Marie, find the time and inclination to ply knitting needles, fashioning one strand of yarn into beautiful garments. Her majesty Queen Mary is said to do exquisite work with knitting needles. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, whose life as First Lady of the United States, is one round of engagements, knits. Gov. Nellie Ross knits and makes hooked rugs. Ex-Empress Ita also knits. Society women no longer indulge in idleness. Occupation of the hands, knitting preferred, is said now to be the vogue.

Bright Colors in Favor for Spring

Reds That Verge on Violet Are Popular; Blues, Yellows and Greens.

Every season, seemingly, there is some color surprise in store for us. Some shade or color that we had considered only an "also ran" suddenly takes a spurt, and for a time at least leads the race.

Already we have a quite interesting list of colors to select from. And in planning your spring wardrobe you must consider them.

Reds that verge on the violet have been gaining ground, as against their rivals, reds that verge on the orange. Thus the rose shades prevail over the flame and tomato shades. With this state of affairs it is perhaps not surprising that violet and purple have come into their own, and in the new hats and wraps and frocks for spring show considerable ascendancy over orange—the color that occupies the same position between red and blue. And to follow out the contrast blues seem to gain ground—while yellows are playing not so conspicuous a role as they did last year at this time. There always seems to be some such focussing of the interest or attention on some one part of the rainbow.

Blue-lavender, or violet-blue, is spoken of in connection with the new thin frocks for spring. In general it is the lavenders and purples toward the blue end, rather than toward the red end, that look smartest at the present time.

There is a soft light shade of blue known as Princess Mary blue—and a deeper shade is Elizabeth blue—that is chosen for sport frocks and felt hats.

Gobelin blue, named of course after the famous tapestries of the name, is stressed by some dressmakers for afternoon frocks.

Brittany blue is a heavenly blue. It is a clear, refreshing shade—to match the sky on a bright spring day, but there is none of that intense brightness that makes some shades of blue difficult to wear. Cathedral blue is a fashionable new tone. If you would know its prototype you must gaze on the windows of the Cathedral of Chartres, in France. Blue lavender is the name given to the present-day version of periwinkle. If you want to be very up-to-date call your greenish-blue Mediterranean blue. That is the smart name for it.

The very name of peppermint green has an appeal. One thinks of those flavorsome confections, sugary peppermint creams. The color is clear and vibrant—yet not at all strident. It lends itself well to the flat, dull-surfaced silks that are chosen now so often for simple daytime frocks.

Absinthe green seems to command special favor. So far it would seem that in Paris yellowish greens of this sort are to be smarter for spring than the more verdant shades, such as peppermint, which has been commanding attention in southern resorts here.

Striped Sport Hat; It Is of Silk Grosgrain

This chic striped sport hat is of silk grosgrain in colors of black, tan and red, with large red glass buttons at the side.

Have Jeweled Heels for Shoes to Match Gowns

While shoe ornamentation has frequently been concentrated at the rear, it is only of late that fancy heels have been available without an accompanying shoe. Now they may be selected in carved or gilded wood, enameled or jeweled design, plain bright colors, or odd metallic combinations such as brass and gunmetal. This new addition to the jewel casket suggests infinite possibilities of matching and blending with minor accessories or major garments. In London, it is said, women match their stockings to the heels of their bizarre shoes. But there is no reason why the idea should not be carried further—and undoubtedly it will.

Robe de Style

One of the most charming examples of the robe de style is a model made of changeable rose and blue taffeta, with the full skirt shorter in front than in back and lined with deep rose faille. A tiny collar of silver lace outlines the pointed décolletage.

WET PRATFOM IS OFFERED

By Woman Who Seeks Democratic Nomination For Governorship of Texas To Succeed "Ma" Ferguson.

San Antonio, Texas, May 1.—Voicing her disapproval of the prohibition laws, Mrs. K. M. Johnson, San Antonio, today made formal announcement of her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mrs. Johnson seeks to succeed Miriam A. Ferguson, whose office also is sought by Mrs. Edith Wilkins, Dallas, and several men.

Mrs. Johnson, formerly operator of hotels in North Texas, and now owner of a ranch in Mexico, declared she was opposed to prohibition because it had proved to be "an utter failure."

"I have been temperate all my life," she said, "never having taken a drink of intoxicating beverages, but I disapprove of prohibition because it has proved to be an utter failure."

"It has been impossible for the number of officials who would enforce the law to do so ***."

"It has been making drunkards, invalids and imbeciles of the boys and girls of our country, almost yet in their infancy. It has made open bootlegging rendezvous of many of our highways, homes, hotels and clubs."

Kept Record Straight

The record in school attendance for Monmouthshire, England, has been created by Cora Price, fifteen-year-old daughter of a Varteg miner, who has not been late or absent once in ten years, says the London Mail.

From her home at the top of a mountain, the girl struggled through the snowstorms which occurred shortly before Christmas, in order that her record might not be spoiled.

CIRCLEVILLE EAGLES DEFEATED BY CLOSE SCORE
Chauncey A. C. 2, F. O. Eagles 1
In First Game of the Local Season Sunday.

The Circleville Eagles were forced to take the little end of a 2 to 1 score in the lid-lifter of the local diamond season yesterday, losing to the well-known Chauncey A. C. by that very slender margin. For a first game, it was an exceptionally well-played game, and it was always interesting to the fans in attendance. There is every indication that Circleville is going to have a team to be proud of this year, backed by the local Eagle lodge which has been following a policy of supporting good athletics, for several years.

The weather was ideal for a ball game—hot enough to warm the joints and aid free motion, and with a gentle tempering breeze blowing from the cloudless western sky. It was such a day that everyone loves to be outdoors, and so was ideal from the fans' standpoint. The infield was lightning fast, and the grass in the outfield green and refreshing to the eye, bored with too much snow. There was an attendance of about three hundred, which was not all it should have been, but it was a well-pleased crowd, and big enough to pay expenses. Frank Davis handled the umpiring in his usual fair and square manner and there were no kicks coming on this score.

There were only a few of the old-time lineup in evidence in the game, but one or two of the old favorites were there. Os Miller was capering around the initial sack and stopping any and all throws with his accustomed ease. Behmer was the same old deep well in the left garden. Turk Baucher was brought in from the fly chasers and started in the box. This lad shows a lot of promise, not allowing a hit or ball out of the diamond in his three stanzas, after which he was lifted to give a try to some of the other heavies. It might have been better to let him stay awhile. Dick McCollister is also well known. He played second and showed a mighty clean set of spikes on the paths.

Gump is a new one on the fans but he looks like a find as a catcher. He accounted for the local's lone score, and contributed a pair of bingles, besides backstopping well. Rector, who pitched the final three and two-thirds innings, also looks good, as does Frank Greeno, of Stoutsville, who chased flies in right. O'Donnell, at short made one hit, and several neat stops.

Bowling pitched a nice game for the visitors, and was very ably backed up by all his teammates. One high spot was Kulik's startling one-hand catch of Greeno's liner in deep right field. Darnell and Figgins led the attack with a double apiece.

First inning—Chauncey, Smith flied to Miller, Kranyik did the same; Swyres was safe on Cummins' error, and Darnell flied to Greeno. One error.

Eagles, Greeno out, bowling to Darnell; Cummins popped to short, and Os flied to Madison.

Second inning—Chauncey, Kulik out Cummins to Miller; Madison and Figgins, O'Donnell to Miller.

Circleville, Gump singled; McCollister flied to Kranyik; O'Donnell singled; Behmer and Rector fanned. No runs, two hits. It looked like a sure score with second and third both occupied.

Third—Chauncey, Russell popped to O'Donnell; Bowling whiffed; Smith popped to O'Donnell.

Circleville, Baucher, Cummins Fourth—Chauncey, (Imler pitching for Circleville), Kranyik tried to stretch a single and was chased down, Miller making the out; Swyres struck out; Darnell hit a beautiful double, but tried to make third and was out, Greeno to O'Donnell to Cummins. Eagles, Miller singled and took second when Kranyik threw to first, 'twas very nice of Kranyik; Gump singled and Miller was held at second; Miller attempted to steal third and was almost chased to earth, but the third baseman dropped the ball when Os ran into him; Gump went to second; Miller was coached to go home, but it was a mistake and he was caught; McCollister hit and Gump scored. Mac stole and next two; O'Donnell flied and Behmer was out in the infield.

Fifth—Chauncey, Kulik fanned; Madison was passed and Figgins busted out a screaming two-bagger. Imler was derrick and Owens went in. Russell out, Gump to Miller, and Bowling flied to Behmer.

Circleville, Rector was safe on Russell's error; Owens fanned; Greeno flied to second and Cummins failed to beat a bunt.

Sixth—Chauncey, Smith singled; he took second on Gump's miss; Kranyik sacrificed; Swyres made first on O'Donnell's boot, he took second; Darnell doubled, scoring Smith and Swyres; Darnell went to third on a wild pitch and Owens was yanked in favor of Rector; Crites went to the garden. Kulik walked; Madison fanned; Figgins out, Gump to Miller. It was the big inning for the visitors.

Circleville, Miller, out, short to first; Gump fouled to first; McCollister struck out.

Seventh—Chauncey, Russell out; Bowling walked; Smith fanned and Kranyik out from Gump to Os.

Circleville, O'Donnell and Behmer fanned; Rector drew a walk, but was out on a fielder's choice on Crites' scratch.

Eighth—Chauncey, Swyres was hit on the shoulder and stole second; Darnell and Kulik struck at three; Madison popped to O'Donnell.

Circleville, Greeno flied to Kulik, who made a great one-hand catch; Cummins out from Smith to Darnell, and Miller struck out.

Ninth—Chauncey, Figgins and Russell fanned and Bowling flied to Russell.

Circleville, Gump struck out; McCollister out, and O'Donnell fouled out to Darnell.

It was a good ball game and a big crowd should be on hand next week.

Great Activity of Associations
Render Some Essential Service Connected With Farmers' Enterprises.
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
There are now more than 12,000 active farmers' business organizations in the United States, the Department of Agriculture estimates on the basis of a recent survey. This number is more than twice that in 1915, when the first nation-wide survey of co-operative associations was made by the department.
Included in Associations.
The associations include those selling farm products, buying farm supplies, operating creameries, cheese factories, canning plants, grain elevators, stockyards, warehouses, or rendering some one or more of the essential services connected with the conduct of farmers' enterprises. The figures do not include farmers' co-operative banks, credit associations, nor insurance companies.
Fifty-four of the associations listed are federations with local units, 49 are sales agencies operating in central markets, 35 are bargaining associations, and 98 are large-scale organizations of the centralized type. Of the total number of associations listed by the department, 3,325 are primarily engaged in marketing grain, 2,197 handle dairy products, 1,770 ship live stock, 1,250 market fruits and vegetables; 121 perform various functions in the marketing of cotton, 91 in marketing wool, 71 in marketing poultry or poultry products, and 24 in marketing tobacco.
In North Central States.
More than 70 per cent of all the associations are in the 12 North Central states. Approximately 6 per cent are in the three Pacific Coast states, and less than 3 per cent in the six New England states. The largest number of associations reporting from any one state is 1,383 from Minnesota. Iowa is credited with 1,094 associations, Wisconsin 1,092, and Illinois 822. Missouri has 537 associations; Nebraska, 488; Kansas, 466; California, 350, and New York, 286.
The grain marketing associations are largely in the 12 North Central states, as are also the greater number of the live-stock shipping associations. The organizations engaged in marketing dairy products are scattered through the country with a fair percentage of the total number in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Encouraged Denunciation
The Black Hole of France was the name given to a receptacle provided in the rear of the building in which the tribunal of the revolution sat. Any person could drop into a slot an anonymous accusation against another, which usually led to arrest and death. Trial in many cases was a farce.

His Method

I ask him.—Progressive Grocer.

thrift. Why, he even gets his hair cut at the barber shop now!"—American
